

These then are the similarities and differences between the schemes set forth by the Arminian Remonstrance and the Westminster Confession of Faith. Of course, it should be pointed out that these doctrines are not the only ones in the Westminster Confession related to the doctrine of salvation. There are chapters dealing with the Covenant of Grace, with Free Will, with justification, with Adoption, with Sanctification, with Saving Faith, with Repentance unto Life, with Good Works, and with the Assurance of Grace and Salvation, together with others which are somewhat related.
