

2. If we wish to have success, we must learn to accept both favorable and adverse criticism with composure.

3. If we wish to have success, we must try to avoid crucial mistakes in life's important decisions.

4. If we wish to have success, we must evaluate our potential appropriately, and find our God-intended niche in life.

5. If we wish to have success, we must choose attainable goals and organize efforts toward them.

6. If we wish to have success, we must be faithful in our varied responsibilities and duties.

7. If we wish to have success, we must strive for excellence in our work.

Let us take hold of these practical principles and incorporate them in our character and our behavior.

And may God grant us all, good success!